OUR SURROUNDINGS

WOOD BUFFALO NATIONAL PARK

Minutes from town is the largest national park in Canada.

The Wood Buffalo National Park is over 44,000km² and contains one of the largest free-roaming bison herds in the world.

The Peace-Athabasca Delta, in the southern region of the park, is one of the largest inland freshwater deltas in the world.

The largest Dark-Sky Preserve in the world shares borders with the park and makes it one of the best places to view the Aurora Borealis.

With dozens of trail heads and kilometers of maintained paths, there are hikes for all skill levels and views for all interests.

LOCAL DEMOGRAPHICS

The Northwest Territories is home to roughly 45,000 people.

The remote nature of the territory paired with a low population density create the perfect environment for vast, untouched natural wonders.

Over 60% of residents in the Town of Fort Smith are Indigenous Canadians. First Nations, Inuit and Métis people have called this community home for centuries; a testament to the rich cultural landscape.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Wood Buffalo National Park is the only place in North America where the predator-prey relationship between wolves and wood bison has continued, unbroken, over time.

WORLD-CLASS WHITEWATER RAPIDS

The 24km stretch of water from Fort Fitzgerald to Fort Smith contains 4 sets of world-class white water rapids. The water crashes against the granite boulders of the Canadian shield creating eddies and whirlpools that paddler's love.

The Rapids of the Drowned are the closest to Fort Smith, with various safe lookouts that don't require getting wet.

Continuing upstream, the Mountain Portage Rapids offers calm coves for swimming, midstream islands that host white pelicans and popular water features for canoes and kayaks.

Pelican Rapids and Cassette Rapids follow afterwards with additional hiking trails, viewing spots and whitewater fun.

LOCAL WILDLIFE

Every year we see the migration of White Pelicans. These birds spend their winters in Texas before flying up to spend summers here.

The spring melts also reveal the northern most population of harmless red-sided garter snakes.

More animals found around Fort Smith:

WINTER

THE DARKEST SKY

A SKY ALIVE WITH LIGHT

The night skies over Fort Smith offer some of the most intense viewing of the Aurora Borealis in the world. The community is located under the auroral oval, a band of energy that encircles the North Pole. On clear nights, when the lights are active, the skies around Fort Smith glow with green, yellow, white and occasionally a fiery red.

DARK SKY FESTIVAL

In late August each year a gathering takes place in Fort Smith and Wood Buffalo National Park to observe and celebrate space, science, stargazing and the night sky. Featured keynote speakers have included astronauts like Roberta Bondar and scientists from around North America.

DID YOU KNOW?

This background photograph taken by Fort Smith local, John McKinnon, was selected by the Bank of Canada to appear on the $10 bill in celebration of Canada's 150th Anniversary!

VIEWING THE PHENOMENON

For a clear view, you don't need to leave Town. While the aurora can be seen from your doorstep, the local astronomical society maintains an observatory for all to use. This public space has reclined seating to ensure an unobstructed view of the sky.

Through a reservation, the society also provides guided access to state of the art telescopes and star-gazing equipment.

EXPLORING THE AREA SAFELY

SAFETY

HIGHWAY SAFETY

- Avoid parking on the side or in the middle of the road. Use designated pull-off spots when rest is required.
- NWT roads are used by large commercial vehicles. Give these vehicles plenty of room.
- Cell-service can be weak or entirely un-available. Share your travel plans with friends and family.

WEATHER PREPAREDNESS

Depending on when you travel, make sure you dress for the weather. The cold temperatures can be dangerous, and if you have vehicle issues you may need to wait for help to arrive.

WILDLIFE AWARENESS

Animals have right-of-way. Yield to approaching animals and use caution when continuing past them.

Never approach or try to feed wildlife. It is extremely dangerous and often results in the animal having to be terminated by Wildlife Officers.

It is a good idea to carry bear spray, bear bangers or other noisemakers if you expect to leave your vehicle during transit.

Animals spotted during travel are wild. They can be unpredictable and potentially dangerous.

911 SERVICE

In an emergency, 911 service is available across the territory.
